Dedication

For her personal interest in all of us; for her guidance and generous understanding; for the limitless time and energy she has devoted to Bradford; for her love of the modern dance and her inspired teaching of it; and for her unfailing enthusiasm and friendliness, we the Senior Class of 1946 dedicate our ANNALS to Florence Eisenhardt Dangerfield.

Senior Song to Miss Bell

Now to you, Miss Bell,
Our praises we will fondly tell.
Always our memory of you
Will bind us to
Our days at Bradford.
Your true graciousness
Across the years will come to us;
In our hearts will always live
Love and guidance that you give:
All these things we love in you, Miss Bell.

(Tune: I'll See You Again)

In June of 1945 Robert Clarke White, faculty adviser of Quill-Annals, relinquished the heavy duties he had borne in that capacity for ten years. We, of this year's Quill-Annals, wish to express our thanks for his unceasing support during his tenure as adviser and to assure him that his generous service will always be remembered and appreciated.

Senior Class Song

Golden the days we've spent at Bradford,
Steadfast the friendships we have made here,
Each little memory will bind us
Close to the class we will always hold dear.
Although our future paths may sever,
These friendships will linger with us ever,
May we be one in heart and spirit,
Remembering our Bradford years.

(Tune: Whispering)

Wendy - 1945

I have been told to say - we have so much fun this year.
I have dropped out of your little circle - flabooz - of course we have enjoyed each other but we certainly had fun among our friends.
I am sure that in the coming year this semester, keep your mouth shut - no doubt to get out of trouble and I am going to miss you so much next year - even more service for you - I am nothing among friends - you must shall continue on with the flabooz.

Please try and come to 'sis's next year for the big reunion - see the fun all time we must write and keep up the news. You have been so good this year. Thanks for the warm deep friendship - my love always, "Kochie".

"We Remember—"

... Mr. White's version of Paul Revere's ride ... Miss Helmes reprimanding all palefaces in her class ... Dr. Moss singing "O Holy Night" ... the sudden rise of interest in music courses ... the ice cream lady "lit up" ... snow ... trying to finish those terrific psych exams ... crawling down the stairs head first to peep at Tom ... the balcony crew witnessing the proms ... cutting our way to the smoker ... the bitter end in Dr. Mitchell's office ... the pipes banging ... Miss Adkins being fashionably late for breakfast ... Miss Weber and Miss Hesslein with their "varying schools of thought" ... limping out of the elevator ... announcing engagements in the Sunday night smoker ... the eleven o'clock bus from Boston ... Miss Bell's inspiring chapel talks ... Miss Ballou being taken for a student ... Mr. Stockman as the accomplished bachelor ... the first time we heard "Bradford" sung ...
We remember ... Bradford.

The Annals Inquiring Reporter

The Annals Inquiring Reporter, curious about the reactions of the Class of 1946 and wishing to gather a few statistics, as well as feeling the urge of spring, determined on a first-hand investigation

Three A. M. . . . All is quiet Suddenly Brrr--Brrr The fire alarm rings loudly through Academy Hall. Had it happened? B. J. C. on fire? Our Annals Reporter is right on the job, notebook in hand, calmly jotting down her observations. She bucks against the tide of sleepy-eyed girls marching down the halls, clad in coats, boots, shoes, pajamas, kerchiefs

First out is Barbara Closser. Here comes Joanie Adams, who has grabbed the telephone off the wall. There is Bam Allen in her fatigues. Look out all! Here sails Pam Trenor skiing off the fourth-floor roof. She made it. Hurrah! It seems Betty Ashe is looking for Dr. Gagey, as usual. There is "Woodie" with her strong box and snapshots. Patsy Bashore appears with her Biltmore Souvenirs gingerly held under her arm. Danny Kraus is seen with her Tabooz back-scratcher. She says Nancy Beam refused to leave her bed.

We don't believe it. It can't be. Why, there's Peg Bernheisel carrying a wastepaper basket. And Nancy Bristol sitting amid the confusion on her desk-chair. Pat Bruce has just come out the door. She's carrying notes. Oh yes, her science notes! Now we can see Barbara Claff with her tortoise-shell combs. That's Sunny Cook swinging "Woodie's" flashlight. Shirley Ross yells; she screams, "Order. Order. Pleeze."

"I forgot my bobbie pins!" exclaims Franny Fager. Leigh Devers has finally brought Julie's scissors. Goody has her letter from Frankie clutched in her hands. She said Peckie stopped everyone on the stairs, wondering what to do. I see that Deeta Dillon snatched her Bermuda reservations. Miss Davis has just appeared on the scene with her restricted list. And now we have Pat Freggens tripping down the stairs with her various lotions and ointments. She is followed by Betty Gordon with her can of orange juice. Now who's this with that well-worn suitcase? Oh! It's Mary Hibbard and looking well groomed as usual.

Could it be? Why, it's Mitzi Hollister adorned in South Wing's shower curtain, and looking quite charming indeed. And here we have Janie Gillis, who is clutching her lipstick in case Dale is around. She tells us that Stevie is close behind, but decided to let her attendance book burn.

And next, with her pink parasol, comes Ginny Worthington, who claims she passed Julie Frederick in the basement searching for her mail. Franny MacDonald appears on the scene with her dog tags and Jane Jessup follows clutching her address book and forty-four bracelets. Midge Hobson had stopped for her roses on the way.

And there's Joan Law seen through the smoker window. It seems she's found an old acquaintance in the Fire Department.

Next in line is Marke Kite with her chiclets, followed by Anzie Talmage clutching her champagne bottles.

Kempie has just come down from third hanging on to Life. She says that Raines and Schlosser are still up there. Apparently they failed to hear the alarm.

And here's another group coming out. Timmie Smith is loaded with Graham's trinkets. And here we see Car Schuster sliding down the banister. She claims it saves time. And who's this walking out of the front door so stealthily? Why, it's Carolyn Smallwood holding on to her all-purpose lipstick, and Nancy Lang is still inside putting her hair up.

Most everyone seems to be out, but no! — There's Dottie Keane with her blue and black evening dress and Janet Simpson has her transfer applications in hand. And there's Susan Thatcher hanging on to her Stu-G gavel. She is followed by Mimi MacWilliams, Skippy Stronge, Polly Parrott, "Nipper" Stacy, Patsy Grier, and Billy Williamson, who are all dropping stitches as fast as they knit.

What is Elena McGrath holding in her hand? Why, it's her passport! She just said that Beaven was delayed—even in an emergency one must think of one's figure. Sully seems to be trying to decide which is most important to save, her golf or hockey stick.

Now the faculty is appearing on the scene. There's Miss Adkins with her cigarette holder and Miss Bell with her skis. And is that—yes, it seems to be Miss Atkinson with her catalogues. And here comes Miss Pearson clutching the sugar bowls . . .

FALSE ALARM! Students and faculty sleepily file back into the building . . . Now the school is dark. Miss Snow must have turned off the lights. All is well, and our Inquiring Reporter, smiling quietly to herself in the darkness of her room, closes her notebook and goes to bed.

Through The Looking Glass

Bradford, Massachusetts

June 5, 1956

Dear Sue,

Settling back in my luxurious, reclining chair, I could hardly believe that I was really on the Boston and Maine going back to Bradford. The ten-minute trip from Boston barely gave me time to read again my invitation to our Tenth Alumnae Meeting. Coming up from the station in a plane, I caught a fleeting glimpse of the Haverhill Night Club Barbara Broderick has opened. By the way, she has 250 rooms that she rents weekly to Bradford dates only, and is thinking of expanding any day now.

In a few minutes I was again in front of Academy Hall. As I started up the front step, Joanie Adams hopped out of her convertible and waved goodbye to Cush and the kids. You won't believe it, but Joanie had her hair braided and coiled about her head. Lumbering down the stairs came a tremendous figure—I had to look twice before I realized it was Nancy Beam. At two hundred pounds she is now a successful model for McAdoo Vitamin Pills. Coming along with Beam was Midget Stewart, of all people. Did you know she has won fame in television? Every morning at five she can be heard reading the funnies over the Kiddies Hour. In the Reception Room I heard Bunt Robinson questioning Julie Frederick about her thesis on "South American Passion." It seems that Bunt is working for her Ph. D. in Psychology. Julie told us that she has been unanimously chosen Queen of the Stork Club by members of the press. Speaking of the Stork Club, did you know that Betsy Alexander is the star of their nightly show? Who would have suspected that Betsy had such hidden talents? About that time, Timmie Smith arrived bundled up in a bear rug from Montreal, where she's taken up residence in a one-room flat. She spends her evenings bravely struggling over her knitting, while waiting for a certain young Med student to get his M.D. I saw Markie Kite standing over in the corner and hidden in a sealskin coat which evidently had come directly from Alaska. She was recently married, I hear, and the bride and attendants all carried violets. I also saw Sue Lesieur in the front hall. She told me that after her career as an airline hostess she'll be in seventh heaven married to Mr. X and enjoying what she loves to do most—being domestic. I asked her about Bev Pierson. She told me Bev couldn't come, but last time she saw Bev she was dancing. She recently originated that new step, the Criss-Cross. I saw Gerry Geiger coming out of the kitchen; she had been teaching Miss Pearson how to mix a Mint Julep, to be served henceforth at Bradford on warm Sundays.

By this time I was starved and headed for the kitchen myself. I ran into Nancy Porter checking up to see if her Home Ec course had done her any good. By the way, she's still waiting for that ship to come in. Ginny Worthington and Pris Mullin had their heads stuck in the ice-box trying to find something to eat, as usual. Ginny is a famed explorer now —she's looking for a companion for her polar bear. Pris is a member of the Russian troupe famed for modern and ballet dancing, and is also the creator of the radio program, "How to be happy as an old maid."

As soon as I could fight my way out of the kitchen, I started for the Smoker. First I ran into Mary Hibbard, who was wearing the national costume of Norway. She has been acting as official interpreter in our Embassy in Norway and says she just loves the snow. Barbie Ewing was pleading with Hib to spend a few days at her Ski School in North Conway to instruct her students in the Norwegian method of skiing. Of all people in the Smoker, I saw Nancy Bristol and Jane Goodman. Nancy is married to the cigarette tycoon I Smoke Daily. She and her husband are responsible for scientific research on energy-giving cigarettes. Goody is now a poetess and in her spare time continues her search for Randy. She told me she really was going on a diet tomorrow, but she is still just tipping the scales at one hundred and ten. Pat Robbins is having a wonderful time chasing bacteria around. We hear she still roots for Purdue from the side lines. The radio was blaring forth and Shirley Ross and Carol Smallwood rushed to turn it down—must have been through instinct. But Luke Bennett's and Susie Day's new hit song, "Always Together," was playing. They're still cheering for the Detroit Tigers. Getting back to Carol, she is now living in Connecticut and writing a book on her interpretation of the interdependence of European and American History. She, like Jevy Baker, couldn't make up her mind. Jevy just flew in from Reno after her fourth divorce. I'm curious to know which one of the original five is left. "Tootie" Scholes is working at Lord and Taylor's modeling beach umbrellas. At her club for eligible bachelors she recalls the day she was pin-up girl for Hut 26, South Pacific Area.

I left the Smoker and ran into Jean MacLean. I couldn't believe it was Jean running—my, how she has changed! She told me she was taking care of little children at a nursery school. Syd Sharp came galloping down the hall and I stopped her just long enough to learn that she's living in the Rebel country now and loves the wide open spaces. She vows she's going to bring her children up on horses. I couldn't resist a peek into the library, and sure enough, there was Ged Laud-Brown. To be frank about the whole thing, she just recently returned from South America where she is instructing her pupils on the merits of Scipio Africanus. I understand she was married to the tender strains of "Oh, Promise Me!" Behind a row of books I saw Jean Kaufman, our new Secretary of the Treasury, who is conducting an inquiry into the Economic Consumption for the Fiscal Year 1924. Mary Schlosser was behind the desk investigating the cataloguing system. Mary is a librarian in Bryon, Ohio. She attributes her success to her well-spent hours at Bradford. Kate Wadsworth was scanning Mr. Davis's reserve shelf. She has been in California teaching "History of the United States of Maine." She is now compounding a theory whereby modern babies will be born with "load-carrying ears" behind which can be placed more and better pencils. Anzie Talmage was looking very prim and proper in a high-necked black dress. She was addressing a group of Freshmen on the merits of the W.C.T.U. Her chief assistant in investigating the degrading effects of alcohol is Franny Fager, and together they have spent much time trying to find "The Lost Week-End." I saw Ann Baumann going through the files. She is doing research in the Santa Fe library on the development of New Mexico. Also she is author of "You Too Can Learn German By Speaking It In Your Sleep."

I heard a lot of noise on Fourth Floor and decided to take the escalator up and see if the old gang was there. Sure enough I saw Pam Trenor. She just skied down from North Conway, where she finally won the Harvey Gibson race. Dana Dawes has turned the tables on Sinatra we learn, and now has all the Boy Scouts swooning at her blues singing. She's moved to Hollywood to take a screen test for a forthcoming picture. I walked in Room 424 and found Car Schuster, who is sick of men and all their playful tricks. She's taking life easy, living a hermit's life, with a sign tacked on her door reading "Interned." Peg Bernheisel is now a renounced Waltz Queen of Van Wert. She originated the famous "Pistachio twirl . . . It's the nuts." Peg told me Carol Tresch was in the make-up lab and is now, as we all know, the famous actress of stage, screen, and television. Her latest triumph was "Bill Came Home." I went across the hall and found Jane Griffin snoring. She claims that she is conducting an experiment on how much sleep the human body can hold. Pat Allen had just arrived via the Birmingham Special. Her mink coat was passed off as a mere trifle from Tombo. She's now at Birmingham Southern getting a Ph.D. in the study of pellagra.

I had to leave and go down to see my old room. I passed Betty Gordon on the stairs; by the way, these are heavily carpeted now. Betty, who is a neat girl, had been visiting her room and didn't find it too spic and span. She told me it needed a little dusting. I saw Nancy Adams comparing rooms with those at Brown. You knew she was house mother there, didn't you? She's still very attached to that ~~safe~~ ^{Peggy} pin. Alice Boston and Peggy Lucas were investigating too. Alice was the principal speaker at the Bradford Book Fair this year. She reviewed her latest publications, "Wisps of Hay" and "Dance and Body Mechanics Glamorized." Alice is the mother of six prospective English majors at Bradford, but Peggy told me secretly that Alice received the greatest amount of publicity on her first book, "Single Life—The Guide to True Happiness." Peggy is also an illustrious member of our class. She has made quite a name for herself as creator of the Lucas Art Museums, Ltd., and has recently been cited by the President of Mexico for her work on Inter-American relations. In her spare time she hops about the country organizing "You Too Can Spell" Clubs. Down the hall came Dottie Keane in a tall fur hat. She told me that she gave up her New York apartment and her Persian cats a few years ago to marry a Russian Prince. Jane Jessup makes a mighty attractive hostess on the American Airlines. Jane had no intention of becoming a hostess but her husband is the pilot and naturally she wants to be near him. I also bumped into Mickey Carson, who is author of the new book, "Ride Your Way Through Life." Mickey is also famous for her collection of rare True Story Magazines.

I met Pee Wee Hanlon and walked down to the gym with her, where she weighed on the new automatic scales that play an appropriate tune as your weight goes up. I was afraid to get on. Pee Wee is leading a busy life with her five little boys who are donned in red hair. She's still living in Akron, dining every night at Swenson's. She hasn't quite completed her novel, "My Roommate Stole My Man." I saw Jayne Gillis showing Mrs. D. her methods of combining modern dance with Yogi, as she taught it to Ghandi and the other Indian nationalists. Joddy Haggert, who is winner of the 1956 National Olympics in hockey, basketball, tennis, baseball, and badminton, had only the following to say: "Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha!" I noticed Pat Bashore practising dance steps and was amazed to find that she is now a Rockette in Radio City Music Hall. She had on the same old dungarees with the sweater underneath the army shirt. "Just getting away from the brief dance costumes," she told me. Ginnie Smith was on her way to the tennis courts but stopped to tell me that she is now a tennis champion and is known as the "Cough Drop Kid." She still gets down to Dartmouth occasionally to see how it is making out. Around the scales I saw Tootie Emmons and June Feltman. June is still dieting and is thinking of publishing a sequel to Betty Smith's book. It will be entitled "Irish Grow in Brooklyn." Because of her strenuous dieting Tootie may be seen from the front but not the side.

I passed by Old South and saw Mary Kaufman, who is now a sensational new dramatic star. She has just opened in a new show which is being widely acclaimed: she is playing the title role in "Harvey." You might like to know that Old South has a glass roof especially designed for sun-bathing. Midge Hobson is curator of the Metropolitan Museum and has just added another member to her amazing bird club. Her only comment was, "She was so excited she just about had a bird!" Ann Kirkpatrick came running down the stairs hitting high C. She is our talented soprano and will sing her first operatic role on the opening night of the 1956 Metropolitan Opera season. Betty Williamson was sporting a cluster of stars on her coat. It seems that her husband has been made General of the United States Army. Franny MacDonald was busily teaching Betty's little army brats to juggle. Did you know that Franny now has her own juggling act at the "Razzle Dazzle Club"?

I passed by the mail box on my way to the Rec Room and saw Tick Law. Tick's been touring the country visiting friends and lecturing on "How to make a first and lasting impression." She's planning marriage soon, but to which of her many acquaintances we have no idea. Mitzie Hollister is now a connoisseur of Russian dressings. She has been staying around Wesleyan waiting for a certain graduation. She spends her spare time as substitute bass in the Glee Club. Dottie Lowman stepped off the elevator; she was recently crowned "Kiss of the Hops Queen" in a liquid ceremony. She's now head of the Marital Relations Bureau in Syracuse, naturally. Leigh Devers is author of "What I Want In A Man." She's now posing for Chen-Yu—it must have been those slanting eyes.

The first person I saw when I finally got to the Rec Room was Nordoviski, known to '46 as Nordie. She's now a world-famous designer and has been devoting her time and talents to creating sophisticatedly styled uniforms for the ultra-secret society which has been founded by Lu Lamont. Some people might wonder about it, but all Lu will say is "Oh, it's fun, like Girl Scouts!" I saw Marge Anderson over on a couch. She just skied down from "Sits Mark" Inn, where she's been proofreading and editing Dick's books. Pat O'Sullivan was drinking a frappe that she whipped up at the soda fountain now in the bar. She is owner of the famous "Hole In One" Doughnut Factory and is counsellor for Conover models on the side. Also another tid-bit—Pat was looking very chic in her upsweep hairdo. Playing bridge with a group was Marion Peck, who is bridge champion of Cleveland. In a moment of confidence she told me the essence of good bridge is concentration. Pat Herbert was looking very modellish. She is posing for the Keith Cliff Magazine. I also heard that she is campaigning to make her photographer the next husband. Dressed in a smartly tailored suit is Pat Freggens. She tells us that she is compiling a history of the Southern States. Pat told me that Jokie Whitehair is Queen of the Shakes and recently married a Professor of the Metropolitan Museum of Insects. I heard Vin Jones playing the piano and interrupted her long enough to find that because of Bradford's influence she has taken up music as a career. She recently composed the hit tune "Every Duck Has Its Bill." Betty Wood ran in sometime during the conversation and told me that she is still living in Bristol. I think she's hoping the Navy will come back to Newport. Also, she's planning to become a Dean of Residence soon, but I don't believe she's quite the type. Franny Luther recently resigned as official screamer for Inner Sanctum to pilot the first rocket ship to the moon.

I walked up through the Auditorium on my way outside and found quite a few people there. Betty Pinkerton was trying to persuade Miss Scarborough to join her on the keyboard at the Pink Palace of Low-Down Music; and Marcia Newsom was practising her new song, "What More Can A Woman Do," for her debut at Kelly's Diner. Peggy Ellis was on the stage practising her script for her radio role as "Frank's Other Wife." We all listened and I don't see how Peg can get out of this triangle. By the way Bobbie Lewis is directing a summer theater and plans to give an entire pantomime production this fall. This is the first play of its kind and rumor has it that Bobbie will be famous soon. Also, Shada Deetjen passed up an opportunity to play the organ in Grand Central Station. I saw Janie Lammert headed for the art studio, so I stopped her and found out that she is a sculptress and has recently been experimenting with plaster. On the side she is running a bar in East Saint Louis. Ellie Yepsen has a chic feather cut and is on a diet, can you believe it! She is also a reputed fashion designer in New York.

I saw Mimi MacWilliams standing on the "cracker," so I went out to find what news she had. Mimi has just patented a new game of "Jacks" and has been acclaimed the best-dressed woman in Syracuse. She told me that Cynn timer Tomlinson is hanging three-cornered outfits on the line. At night she sits by the fire with Poppa John recalling the good old days when they were young. Rosalie Koontz dashed up for the day. She's currently starring in the Broadway hit I Was Jilted. I heard that Rosalie is the most sought-after actress in New York. Kathy Stanley has been doing quite a bit of hunting and recently won a trophy for catching the largest buck on record. Also, Barbara Beaven is now editor of Modern Romance. She is on her way to Princeton—he hasn't graduated yet.

Since I was so close I had to renew old acquaintances in Hasseltine Hall. Walking over, I saw Miss Bell make a beautiful landing in her new helicopter. She finds it an easier way of getting about. I saw Janie Hilton, who is teaching marriage at the University of Maine. Her main thesis is, "Wait and Be Sure." Janie is her own example—her courtship lasted five years but finally she was convinced. Elena McGrath has been visiting in North America for a few months. She left a Wellesley reunion early to come to Bradford for the big day. Also, she is responsible for founding the McGrath University and is going back to teach English. In the Biology Lab I found Bunny Munroe looking around. She is script writer for the Children's Story Hour and at the same time writing a sequel to Winnie the Pooh for her children. Betty Ashe was down the hall with her head stuck in the Annals file; she is society editor of the Knoxville Journal and is still trying to meet deadlines. Martie Raines was in the cooking lab, as I expected, renewing old friendships. Martie just opened a new chain of Johnson Restaurants, and says the meal planning comes easy but she can't keep her finances straight. Brushing up on her Home Ec was Sue Shmook, who is looking forward to married life someday. Right now she has a beautiful collection of cats and canaries. Pris Fiorini was giving a few tips to the class on preparing meat in the automatic cooker. She was talking to Barbara Fry, who has opened a beauty parlor and masseuse salon in New York. We hear that she's responsible for most of these new dynamic styles we see in the magazines. Myra Toel is creator of the new face cream you've heard so much about. She's making her own brand of Toel House cookies on the side. Lecturing to the Freshmen was Betty Jeppson; she told me that her favorite time-saving device is the all-time favorite—the meal planner, cooker, and server, namely the cook. Found Lang in the art studio. Nancy's living in Greenwich Village and sweeping upward as New York's famed hair stylist. She's still trying to "get back to nature" and recently won acclaim for her popular pamphlet Diet Through Dance.

I heard Joan Kemp Smith in the Clothes Lab, so I went back and found Kempie demonstrating her newest creation in the dress line, the "hip-hiding drape." She told me that she is planning a trip to Canada to participate in a ski jump. Barbie Claff was viewing Kempie's demonstration with little enthusiasm, but since she is the best dressed woman in America this year I guess that is all right. Barbie is now living in New York and has no immediate plans for the future. Skippy Stronge is selling lingerie in the basement of Penny's. During her two weeks' vacation she found time to play the piano while the Indians did their war dance. Carol Foster is chief interior decorator for Harzfields in Kansas City. Her specialty is baby rooms, but she says her skill is not due to experience.

I met Janet Simpson on the way downstairs and learned that she is now filling out applications in trying to transfer someplace to get her Ph.D. I started back to Academy Hall to get a little rest before the meeting. I saw Polly Peabody dressed in white and was amazed to find that she is head nurse at Bradford. On the side, however, she is singing duets with Richard Crook. Have you heard that Siss Dowd is running a Date Bureau? And her favorite literature is still Canadian Comic Strips. Pat Parrott is author of "Why Sleep During Exams?" She stopped off here while on her way to Bowdoin to renew fond memories; also, she now takes her meals in tablet form. I knew it would come to this some day. I bumped into Nina Green somewhere in the hall and found that she is now an airlines hostess and up in the clouds as usual. On the way back to my room I heard that Glo Neumann was in the shower and knew that she'd be late for our meeting. She is a criminal psychologist and still trying to make up her mind. Jane Gardiner, who we all thought would go into the journalistic world, is selling green fedora hats in Goldblatts. Also Marge Reich and Irwin have a corporation which illustrates humorous jokes for private consumers.

I finally reached my room, but it was full of smoke. That is easily remedied these days with the air conditioning in all the rooms. I realized that I could never get any rest with all the people around. Mary Stacy was telling about the marital relations bureau she's opened in hopes of solving her own problems. She's been carrying on a thriving business. I heard that she always has a hand in keeping the office free from spiderwebs. Just back from France is Nancy Crowe. She has been training mice and men, and says we'd be amazed at the success of her efforts. Maybe we wouldn't. Looking out of the window, I saw Pat Grier driving up. Pat is now wife of that super-salesman (with the Rudolph Valentino eyes), and Wilda Schaumann came in to tell us that it was time for the meeting. She is now a famous model for Morrow Toothpaste. I always thought that grin would be of some use. Peggy Rowan and Stevie Hayes came in as we were leaving and I had to stop and talk as usual. Peggy declined an offer from the Metropolitan Opera and is singing lullabies to her kiddies. As usual Stevie is running a sweater store, but this time for the Navy. We understand that she jumps at the sound of a bell. Finally we got to the second floor living-room for our meeting, but I had to visit with a few more people before we could start. I was glad to see that there was one place that had not changed—it reminded me of exams and I could still see the Seniors studying here. Sunny Cook was playing the piano, while everyone joined in the singing. Sunny made her fortune by whipping off musical slogans for the radio. At home she keeps busy telling her triplets about the adventures of "Al-i-baba and the Forty Thieves." Susie Storz was psychoanalyzing Deeta Dillon. Susie is writing a new novel, Frankenstein, or The Inside of the Inside of the Brain Tissue of Two Geniuses. Deeta Dillon has just had her favorite plays on words compiled in book form so that others may enjoy them. Barbara Closser is directing twenty camps for Sea Bees. She just returned from a canoe trip down the wilds of the Mississippi. Settled on the low brown couch was Emily Dixon, waiting for the meeting to start. I stepped over and found that after all her talk Emmie has married an Army captain and they're living on Illinois Avenue in Washington, D. C. She spends her spare time composing a calorie chart for the typical Bradford girl. Bunny Winsock has attained her ambition of being a life guard at Newport. Her cute apartment at Lincoln Park is the scene of much gaiety, I hear. Tish Rieck and Bee Wells were chatting and I interrupted to find that Tish is staying at the old maid's home still trying to evaluate all her men. But in her indecision she manages to hold down the job of art editor for Vogue. Bee is still remembering verses of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and raising future Tech men to take after Father. By the way, Cynn timer Nichols has one of the sought-after jobs with the State Department. She loves Washington but is hoping to settle on a farm soon and raise chickens. Billy Williamson has isolated herself in Connecticut and is correcting spelling and punctuation for her husband's new book.

Pat Bruce came in at this point. She had a sore throat and was looking for a Smith Brothers' Cough Drop. I guess you know that she's working here at Bradford as adviser to the girls on how to fill out Toby-Coburn application blanks.

Quite a few, like you, did not get here for the meeting. Someone told me that Lois Cole did not hear about it until today and was going to fly up, but I didn't see her. I heard, though, that she was American Ambassador to Spain for the last year, and brought back many attractive gowns and acquaintances. Margaret Cummings is a missionary in India and could not quite get here. She wrote that she made the trip over in four hours' flying time. Mary Louise Zanone is in Paris as a fashionable clothes designer. She is having a little trouble making the French understand that Southern accent. I heard that Sue Gillogly finally got into Northwestern and loved it so much that she is now teaching a correspondence course there. Did you hear that Joan Mitchell finally persuaded the Navy to let her live aboard the U. S. S. Lang? It seems as though the Navy was reluctant about releasing a certain young officer, so the Admiral took pity on Mitch. Also, Joan Koch has taken up housekeeping over in England. She has a white house but is having trouble paying the bills. No one has heard much about Nancy Cannon or Babbie Neumann, but rumor has it that Babbie is now touring Europe. The last we heard she had two new additions to the family, Robert and Edmund. Nancy is president of the Permanent Permanent Company. She guarantees that the curl will last, no matter what the weather.

We had a very successful meeting and were so sorry that you couldn't be with us. But I told everyone about the illustrious Susan Thatcher and your duties as head of the female portion of the U. N. O. I know your family and your campaign for the Pennsylvania Legislature must keep you busy. I haven't been doing much lately aside from my political duties and nursing my five children through the measles.

I guess that is all the news from Bradford for now. I hope to see you at the next reunion.

Song to Freshmen

Freshmen, your attention please
For a little while,
We must part from Bradford soon
Leaving this with you.
Freshman Class, the Seniors sing to you
All that's in our hearts,
Of the days that we have shared with you
Lasting memories.
Remember traditions of old,
Remember the friendships we hold,
Remember the spirit that binds us
To this fleeting year spent with you.
Freshman Class hold fast to those ideals,
That make Bradford real.
Our devotion will not fade,
Remember we love you.

Freshman Songs

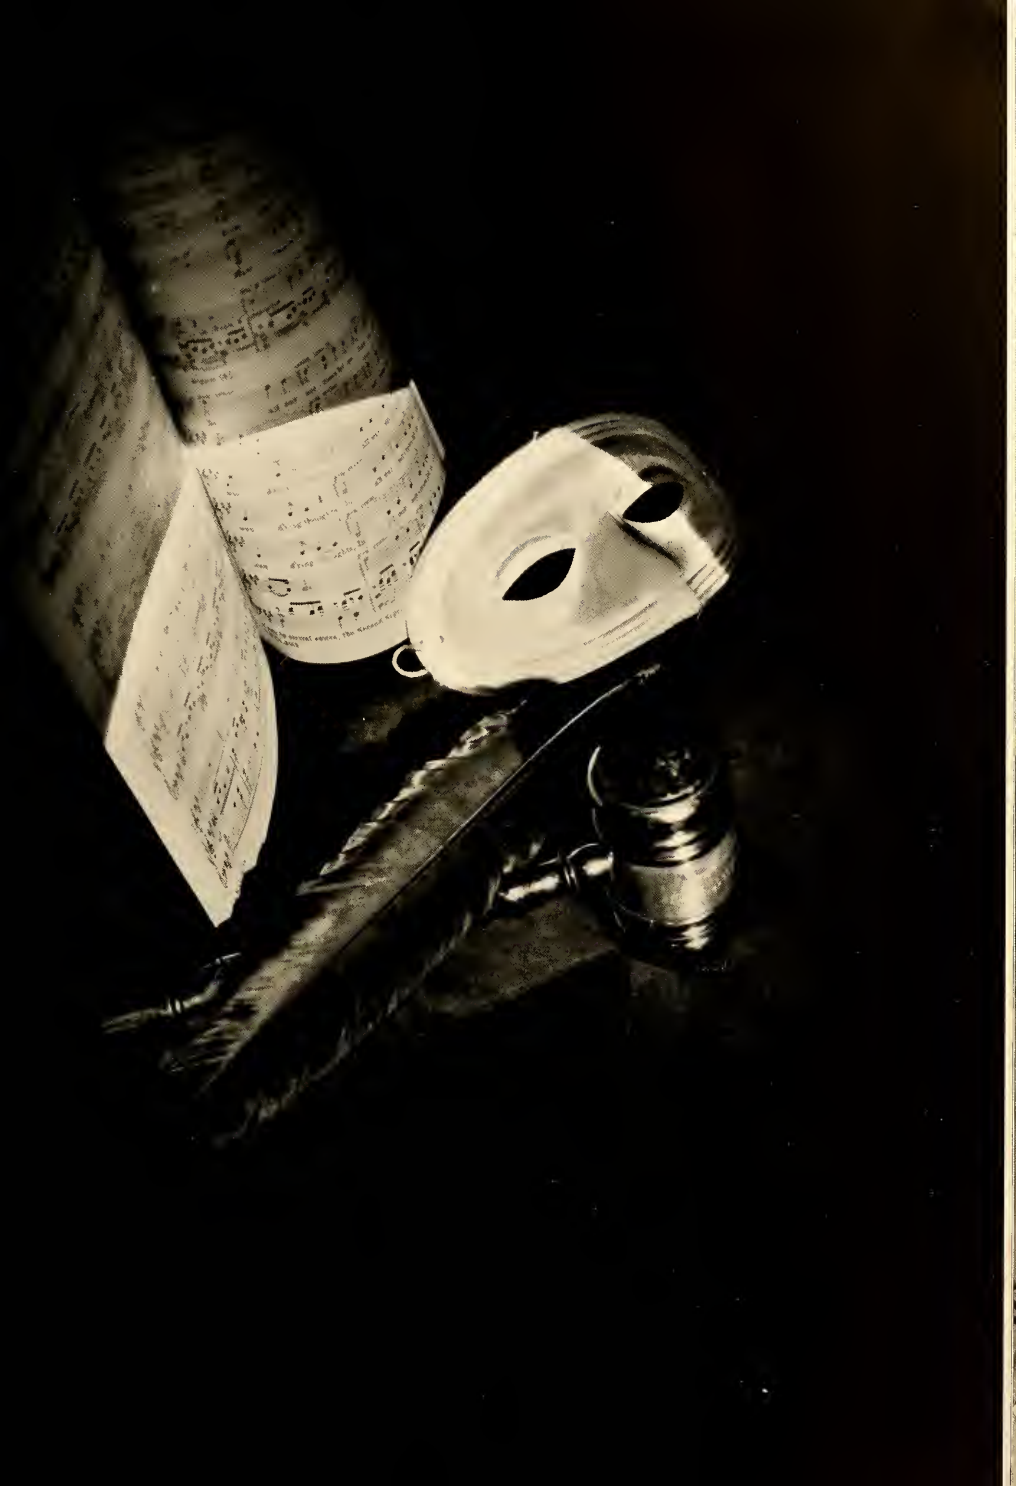

Freshman Song to Miss Bell

To you, Miss Bell,
We sing our praise,
These days we've spent with you
We'll remember always;
How much your graciousness and charm have meant to us,
How much you've done to make our lives complete,
Your Smile, Miss Bell,
We'll not forget;
It has lingered in our hearts
Since first we met.
You'll never know how great a love
That we all have for you:
We sing our praise, Miss Bell.

(Tune: "This Changing World")

Freshman Song to Seniors

To you, forty-six,
We sing to you this night,
Though fleeting years may come and go
You'll be always in our sight.
We'll ne'er forget this Bradford year,
These carefree, happy days.
Forty-six, you're loved by every heart.
We'll remember you always.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Student Government Association of Bradford includes the entire student body and is headed by a group of twelve. The Council consists of a president, a vice-president, who are both Seniors, a secretary-treasurer, who is a Freshman, three Senior members-at-large, and three Freshman members-at-large, the president of House Committee, and the presidents of the Senior and Freshman classes.

Bradford is a miniature democratic community, and the Council is the governing body. Not only does it make and enforce laws, but it tries to solve any group or individual problems that may arise. Student government guarantees the welfare of the group, and the group in turn adjust themselves and live accordingly to the regulations of the Council.

This year, one of the most important aims of the Council has been promoting the idea of individual and group responsibility. The student body has contributed many new ideas and has earnestly participated in government activities.

Outside of its governing function the Council has helped draw up the Freshman handbook, which has always been helpful to the incoming Freshman. The Senior members of the Council along with the president of War Council, Christian Union, and the Athletic Association, worked with Miss Atkinson in regard to Vocational Symposium week, held in February.

With the guidance and advice of Miss Bell and Miss Adkins, the Student Government has had a very interesting as well as successful year.

HOUSE COMMITTEE

The House Committee is an organization working side by side with the Bradford Student Government. At the head of the committee is the president, elected by an all-student vote, serving for one semester only. Assisting her is the secretary, elected by the House Committee. The committee is composed of corridor captains and their assistants, two girls representing each corridor in the main dormitory, and two girls from each off-campus house. All girls are elected for one semester only, but all may be reelected the second semester, with the exception of the president.

With the idea in mind of establishing cooperation between the two governing student bodies, the president of the House Committee is a member of the Student Government Council, and from time to time the president of the Student Government attends meetings of the House Committee.

This year the House Committee has endeavored to arouse a stronger interest among the student body in dormitory problems. It has also made an effort to promote a spirit of closer cooperation between the students and the committee.

Such matters as devising a system for answering phones, and paper salvaging for the War Council have been the concern of House Committee. "Quiet hours" and "roll call" are among the jobs that confront this organization. "Alertness and efficiency" might be the motto of House Committee in performing its tasks and solving problems methodically.

Monthly corridor meetings are held, conducted by the chairman and her assistant. Any suggestions for improvement are welcomed at these meetings, and in this way the House Committee can learn student opinion, run the dormitories more efficiently, and help to make each girl an indirect participant in this organization.

Virginia Price, Jean Marston, Judith Bigelow, Priscilla Mullin, Frances MacDonald, Secretary; Nancy Lang, Vice-chairman; Letitia Rieck, Cynthia Nichols, Chairman; Eleanor Atwater.

WAR COUNCIL

The War Council is an all-student organization directed by ten representatives from the student body. It was organized during the war for the purpose of coordinating all war activities undertaken by the college to help bring about victory and peace. This year, although the war is at an end, there still have been numerous necessary activities connected with the war, and the Council has continued to function. Next year it is hoped that the Council will carry out projects that are connected directly with Bradford and the community of Haverhill. The name will then be changed.

The Council began its activities this year by directing a successful National War Fund and Community Chest Drive. A total of $1309 was contributed by the students, faculty, and staff.

In January we did our part in the National Clothing Drive by collecting enough clothes to fill five large cartons, and in March a Red Cross Drive was sponsored in connection with the National Red Cross Drive.

The major activities of the War Council this year was the task of refurbishing a dining room at Pierce Junior College in Athens, Greece. The furnishings and equipment of that college were almost totally destroyed during the war, and our assistance was greatly needed. In the spring, furnishings suitable for the room at Pierce College were shipped from Bradford to Athens, thus creating a closer bond between Bradford and a sister institution.

All during the year every student has been involved in the War Council's program of paper salvage, which has been carried on now for two years.

We are very indebted to our faculty adviser, Miss Helmes, and wish to thank her for her generous help throughout the year.

SECOND ROW: Nancy Hayes, Eleanor Browne, Ann Kirkpatrick, Martha Dowd, Camilla Webber, Virginia Stauffer, Alice Boston, Janet Grade, Mary Knight, Barbara Hedges.

CHRISTIAN UNION

The Christian Union of Bradford includes the entire student body and is directed by a Council of seventeen girls. This year the Council was entirely made up of volunteers; thus it was composed of girls who had a genuine interest in and enthusiasm for religious and social work.

The Council has a dual purpose: first and foremost, to lay emphasis on college life; second, to select the particular philanthropies to which the contributions of the students go. Two of our major contributions this year have been three hundred dollars to the Community Chest and two hundred dollars to the Red Cross. We have also become the sponsors of a small school in Europe through contributions to Save the Children Federation.

One of the ways in which we have tried to stress the spiritual side of campus life has been through informal vesper services held in the second floor living-rooms.

The Council began its activities this year with a reception for the Freshmen during the opening week of school. Late in the fall came the Book Fair, in which every Council member participated. At Christmas the Council, with the aid of the student body, sponsored the traditional Christmas children's party. To this the children of servicemen were invited.

In the winter, during Lent, the Christian Union held a Religious Emphasis week. Among others the topic Religion and Science was discussed during the informal conference period which followed in the afternoon. The speakers were the Rev. Emerson H. Lalone and the Rev. R. S. M. Emrich.

Many feel that with the numerous interests in college one tends to lose sight of the importance of the spiritual side of life. The Christian Union wants to see that the importance of religion is brought out in everyday living. The organization wishes to thank its adviser, Miss Jenks, for her helpful cooperation during the year.

QUILL-ANNALS

Quill-Annals is the literary club at Bradford. Each year we publish four issues of Quill, the literary magazine, and Annals, the yearbook. The club offers its members an opportunity to try their skill at original writing, art work, news writing, and business management. In addition our object is to present to the student body a timely record of the main events of the year at Bradford.

This year the social activities of the club were planned by all the members. In December Quill-Annals gave a very successful bridge party in the Rec Room. Refreshments were served and table prizes presented.

Quill-Annals wishes to thank Miss Ballou for her enthusiastic support and helpful suggestions, which contributed so much toward making Quill a successful publication. Also we wish to thank Dr. Gagey for his untiring help and advice in the publication of Annals.

MASQUERADERS

The Masqueraders Club offers an excellent opportunity for those interested in the theater to increase their understanding and to acquire some acting experience. This year, through the Theater Guild, we have also been enabled to see some very fine performances in Boston.

One of the most outstanding productions of the year is the Christmas Choral Pageant, which was presented by Masqueraders in collaboration with the Glee Club on Mothers' Day in December. A revival of the nativity play presented in medieval churches, it is one of the most beautiful spectacles of the college year, and is long remembered by those who see it.

Besides this larger production, the Masqueraders present annually a number of one-act plays. This year's list includes "The Still Alarm," "The Woman from Off," "The Bathroom Door," "The Glittering Gate," "Husbands Supplied," "The Primadonna," and "The Bond Between." In the spring a program of one-act plays was presented for the Bradford girls and any others who wished to attend.

In spite of the large number of Masqueraders, almost every member has had an opportunity to participate actively in some form of work, such as acting, back-stage work, directing, and lighting.

We attribute the signal success of our group largely to the unceasing work of Miss Mors and Mr. Batchelder, who have helped us to overcome difficulties and solve problems.

Glee Club

This year's membership in the Glee Club exceeds that of any previous year, making this organization the largest of the three major campus clubs.

The first joint concert with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was held early in November. This is the first time that a concert has been presented before Christmas, and the Glee Club is pleased with its success.

On Mothers' Day, in collaboration with Masqueraders, we presented the Christmas Choral Pageant. This traditional pageant depicts the story of the nativity in pantomime and song.

At the end of February the Glee Club held a successful concert at Governor Dummer Academy. This engagement was followed by a concert in April with the Harvard Glee Club. The twenty-ninth annual concert with Andover took place at the beginning of May. This was of special interest because the Glee Clubs of Bradford and Andover were the first to initiate these joint concerts. At the end of May the second concert of the year with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was held.

The Glee Club has been under the excellent guidance of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Robson, directors, Miss Scarborough, accompanist, and Gerry Geiger, president. Under this leadership the club has had one of the most successful years in its history.

TABOOZ

Tabooz is a singing organization consisting of fifteen girls, nine Seniors and six Freshmen. They sing old, unforgettable songs in their own modern, blue harmony. This is only their third complete year and already they have become well-known to every girl at Bradford.

Tabooz was originated by six girls in the Freshman Show of 1942 and was completely organized at the time of the Senior Show in 1943. Since then Tabooz have always sung in the Senior Show, "Lazy Bones" being their selection for the performance this year. They have also introduced several new songs, such as "Where or When," "Weddin' Bells," and "I'll See You In My Dreams."

The Tabooz start off each year with six Seniors, who were the six Freshmen selected the year before, and then choose three more Seniors to sing with them in the Senior Show. Six Freshmen are chosen just before Christmas, who carry on for the following year.

In the fall, Tabooz were asked to fly to New York to entertain at the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Alumnae Association and the New York Bradford Club. Tabooz provide entertainment at Glee Club concerts and all college get-togethers.

Since Tabooz arose through student organization, it has remained under student leadership without faculty supervision.

FIRST ROW: May Robinson, Sidney Stronge, Mary Elizabeth Cook, Geraldine Geiger, Leader; Dorothy Keane, Elizabeth Pinkerton, Elizabeth Williamson.
 SECOND ROW: Virginia Worthington, Marcia Newsom, Jane Hilton, Nancy Lang, Susan Day, Priscilla Peabody, Susan Thatcher, Helen Kraus, Helen Scholes.

CHOIR

The choir had a very successful year under the direction of Miss Scarborough, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Eckert, who came to Bradford in January as head of the music department after the resignation of Mr. Johnson. The choir is composed of twenty-two Seniors who were chosen at the end of their Freshman year. They led the singing in all vesper and chapel services during the year. The night before Christmas vacation the choir continued the old tradition of caroling at the various homes of the faculty.

ROMANCE LANGUAGES CLUB

The object of the Romance Languages Club is to further an understanding of other nations, particularly those in which the Romance languages are spoken. In an effort to achieve this end we have had speakers who gave us accounts of their personal experiences abroad.

At the French meetings our speakers Mlle. Damazy, Mrs. Fivian, and Dr. Edmond Méras of Exeter Academy presented many interesting points on student life in France and the actual conditions in that country at present. Also at one or two meetings we had speakers from the "France Forever" organization.

We were introduced to many places in Portugal, Spain and Italy in an illustrated talk by Dr. Gagey. Elena McGrath told the members of several points of interest which they might someday visit in Argentina.

Films were not neglected, for at one meeting we had a colored film entitled "South of the Border" which showed many of the places in South America visited by Walt Disney and his group of artists.

On the lighter side we might add that we heard popular Spanish records, as well as some of the classics of contemporary French composers. Our successful year was due largely to the generous cooperation of our faculty adviser, Mlle. Damazy.

BRADFORD FORUM

The Bradford Forum consists of a group of girls who are interested in the vital issues of the present day. In this group each girl is free to differ with the views of others, and to express her own opinion on any subject.

The Bradford Forum meets twice a month for informal discussions, movies, or outside speakers. Among the club's activities this year have been discussions about the history and future of the Atomic bomb, a debate for and against compulsory military training, and a talk on the conditions in France and Germany.

The main object of the Forum is to promote interest in national and international affairs, and to create a better understanding of the issues of this postwar period. We owe many thanks to Dr. Moss for all his help and guidance through the year.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

During its twelve meeting in the past year, the Home Economics Club has included in its program a diversified group of subjects concerned with homemaking and community life. Talks and demonstrations by outside speakers, movies, and general discussions have helped to enlighten us on topics ranging from foods and textiles to make-up and interior decorating.

The Home Economics Club is affiliated with the Massachusetts State Home Economics Association and the American Home Economics Association. Being a student group, we belong to the student group in these associations. Members of the club attended meetings through the year with other college students, which afforded the opportunity of exchanging ideas and meeting other girls. The officers of the Massachusetts State Student Association, of which Bradford is one of the charter members, are elected for one year; this year the representative from Bradford held the office of secretary.

Through its affiliation with the Massachusetts State Student Association the club has been able to participate in plans to help rebuild the war-torn nations of the world. Members of the club packed and shipped seven Christmas gift packages to children of Greece. The packages contained small toys and gifts as well as school supplies. Another project undertaken by the club was to send home economic magazines urgently needed by schools in Europe.

We are indebted to Miss Beach and Miss Wells for their help and guidance through the year and to them we express our appreciation.

FIRST ROW: Lavinia Jones, Patricia Herbert, Ellen Kate Rawson, Sydney Sonn, Dorothy Lowman, Janet Simpson.
 SECOND ROW: Patsy Bashore, Nancy Hayes, Martha Dowd, Margaret Ellis, Elizabeth Hendee, Vice President; Nancy Bristol, President; Priscilla Munroe, Treasurer; Dorothy Keane, Secretary; Joan Kempsmith, Barbara Creighton, Anne Feagley, Mary Crowe.

CAMERA CLUB

The aim of the Camera Club is to promote interest in photography and its technical problems. The Club benefits its members by providing them with contact with others of similar interests. It presents new information by a variety of discussions. Friendly criticism by fellow members is of great value and Club participation improves one's technique.

Informal talks and demonstrations included the use of the camera, selection and evaluation of subject matter, developing, printing, and enlarging of films. This naturally led to such topics as artificial lighting of interiors, portraits, and Kodachromes. The Club has, this year, equipped a room to encourage its members to develop and enlarge their own pictures and to mount them for exhibition. In all these activities, Mr. Dangerfield, the faculty adviser, has been of invaluable help.

FRONT ROW: Nancy Lang, Barbara Beaven, Betty Ashe, Chairman; Babbie Neumann, Carlotta Schuster, SECOND ROW: Betty Wood, Letitia Rieck, Barbara Searle, Barbara Closser, Mimi MacWilliams, Carolyn Smallwood, Rita Dillon.

ANNALS STEERING COMMITTEE

The Annals Steering Committee was organized last fall to edit Annals. The members include the editors of Quill, three senior representatives from Quill, and a freshman representative.

The twelve members have done all the editing and writing for the yearbook.

Annals Steering Committee is deeply indebted to Dr. Gagey for his advice and understanding throughout the year.

Athletic Association

The Athletic Association is made up of the entire student body. Its main purpose is to stimulate the students in various competitive and non-competitive sports.

The sports offered by the A.A. this year are: archery, badminton, basketball, fencing, field hockey, golf, modern dancing, riding, softball, skiing, swimming, tennis, and lacrosse. Each sport is under the direction of a student manager chosen at the beginning of the year and is supervised by coaches. Every year tournaments are played in tennis, badminton, and archery.

Again this year we are fortunate to have Mrs. Dangerfield, head of the Physical Education Department, assisted by Miss Jane Hesslein, and Miss Betty Weber. Because of their unflinching interest and cooperation we have had a most successful year.

The end of the war with its transportation restrictions has enabled the A.A. to extend its activities. In the fall we had a series of exciting Freshman-Senior hockey games. Congratulations go to the victorious Seniors. In October a chosen team of Seniors and Freshman went to Boston for an "All College Field Day." Two of our Seniors were chosen to be on the "All College" team. Early in November Pine Manor and Lasalle Junior Colleges came to Bradford for a Field Day. Because of rain the games were not completed, but the meeting was nevertheless a success. A tennis tournament held in the fall brought first honors to a Senior and second place to a Freshman.

After Christmas many of us migrated to Conway for a week-end of wonderful skiing. The Ski Club also took several trips to Amesbury and nearby slopes.

The basketball season proved a great success. A team of Freshmen and Seniors was invited to give an exhibition at Radcliffe College. In addition to our regular Freshman-Senior game, we played Radcliffe early in March at Bradford and later traveled to Colby Junior College for another intercollegiate game.

The last week-end before Spring vacation found the entire college gathered at the pool to watch the annual interclass swimming meet and formation swimming exhibition.

Spring brought our traditional Field Day, which includes the tennis finals and Student-Faculty softball game, followed by the awarding of the Athletic Cups for the winning teams of the year.

Fathers' Day in April offered a spectacle that will never be forgotten—the Father-Daughter volleyball game, one of the most outstanding events of the year.

At Commencement time in June we had our traditional Dance Fete under the direction of Mrs. Dangerfield. This was a most impressive sight with beautiful costumes and an exhibition of talented modern dancing. Picture above right.

Without the guidance and enthusiasm of Mrs. Dangerfield, Miss Hesslein, and Miss Weber we could not have had such a successful year. We are all very grateful for what they have done and the fun we have had working with them.

How many of the following business concerns are familiar to you after one or two years at Bradford?

If you score 100%, you are a wise shopper.

If you score 50 to 100%, you are an indifferent buyer.

If you score less than this you are a tough customer.

Remember these advertisers whose patronage makes this book possible.

Admitted May 28 1886

And, this is terrible, I just hate to think of not coming back here next year and morning with you and Joe. Ever since, you called me on that red-letter August day - my last year at Bradford has been perfect -
- and - you - alone - have made it that way. I look to see the end of all things in your house and parties at the camp and many ice-cream cones and really very nice. All next year I'll see you keeping around the door, shutting those eyelids with the glasses on the end of your nose!
Oh I'm going to miss you so much
I shall probably be in Boston every week to bother you - that is if you aren't out doing the light fantastic with a certain Fodor lady - !! I could go on for ever remembering the party at John's when you & Ed Thwaites were sticking up quite a fine display - and I was sitting in Fido's lap - oh boy !! The 5 days here do have appeal, the many rides on the lumpy Boston. Steam train, singing and watching the world over a cigarette, and best of all the week-end long talks with and about everything. Your coldest family
- all of them, have been so nice to me
I could never thank any of you enough
- If I don't stop soon, the train will start and then you'll never be able to read my writing - So - bye for now - Lots & lots of love. Love

Dear Stewie,
I don't know quite what to say - at any rate, it's been a swell year and an even "sweller" corridor? Well nice and

Dear Stenie,

Thanks to my cousin who first informed me of Bradford. It's been the most wonderful year in my life and I am so glad to get to you.
It's been such a comfort to have you here I want you to know I appreciate all you've done to make me feel at home.

Bradford is even better than you described (you did have me scared for a little while).
Next year you have an invitation to stay with me when you come up - (Of course you are!!!!)

Lots of love.
